

whipupawiki.

Welcome to the workshop backchannel... Bill Dolton at 18:20 PM, 27 Jun 2010 via web

Why do you recommend using Firefox? Kathy at 18:27 PM, 27 Jun 2010 via web

What exactly is "backchannel"? Kathy at 18:27 PM, 27 Jun 2010 via web

Firefox has been the most reliable when editing wikis... in my experience :-)) Bill Dolton at 18:41 PM, 27 Jun 2010 via web

A backchannel is a discussion that goes on in the background... Bill Dolton at 19:11 PM, 27 Jun 2010 via web

... like passing notes in class, but on topic! Bill Dolton at 19:11 PM, 27 Jun 2010 via web

Is TodaysMeet free? Anne at 19:16 PM, 27 Jun 2010 via web

although I like Wikispaces, I sometimes find that I can't make it as aesthetic as I want it. Any ideas? Paula Calabrese at 19:17 PM, 27 Jun 2010 via web

Where do you get the back channel, is it called todaysmeet or did you just name it that? Emily Graves at 19:18 PM, 27 Jun 2010 via web

I'm also interested in improving the aesthetics of my space. Mary Jo at 19:29 PM, 27 Jun 2010 via web what is the difference between wiki and blog? Brad at 20:00 PM, 27 Jun 2010 via web

Can you clarify the "copyright" issues involved if I want to create a link to other internet sources such as "YouTube", etc.? Kathy at 20:38 PM, 27 Jun 2010 via web

Thanks for your presentation. Will your "whipupawiki" resource be available to us indefinitely or for a limited time only. Kathy at 20:41 PM, 27 Jun 2010 via web

Excellent Resources and help! Thanks Bill Emily Graves at 21:25 PM, 27 Jun 2010 via web

Thanks for a wonderful workshop. I'm not seeing responses to all of the questions from Sunday's workshop. Kathy at 18:11 PM, 28 Jun 2010 via web

The WhipUpaWiki wiki will remain available for the foreseeable future. I have no plans to take it down or make it private. Bill Dolton at 23:14 PM, 29 Jun 2010 via web

Re: copyright - publishing on a wiki does not change basic copyright responsibility, e.g., if a YouTube video violates copyright don't embed Bill Dolton at 23:15 PM, 29 Jun 2010 via web

Diff. between wiki & blog: see Discussion tab on wiki home page for answer there. Bill Dolton at 23:16 PM, 29 Jun 2010 via web

Today'smeet.com is a free backchannel web 2.0 tool - simple, single purpose. Bill Dolton at 23:17 PM, 29 Jun 2010 via web

Wikispaces aesthetics: explore Look&Feel in Manage Wiki; If you know CSS you can fine tune look & feel. Bill Dolton at 23:19 PM, 29 Jun 2010 via web